Three new members were added to the Students' Council yesterday. Frank M. Godine will represent Arts; Ney Gordon has been chosen by Commerce, and Lloyd Almond was picked by Science.

McGILL MEN CLASH WITH Y.M.H.A. SAT.

First Senior Basketball Fixture Should Prove Real Test
9.00 O'CLOCK

Intermediate A's to Stage Game With North Branch Y.M.C.A.

The first test for the senior basketball team is coming on Saturday night, Dec. 6th, when they will clash with the Y.M.C.A. A quintette on the latter's floor. This game will be one of the first of senior basketball fixtures in the city, and it looks as though a great crowd will be on hand for the game, starting at 9.00 p.m. An admission of 50 cents will be charged and strip tickets from the hand book will not be accepted, this being an outside game.

The Red and White should field a strong team for the encounter judging from recent practices held in the M.H.S. Gym. Coach Van Wagner has been working his men hard and they are rounding into first class condition. Although their work is not what might be termed finished basketball as yet, there is a noticeable improvement day by day both in team play and individual passing, shooting, and dribbling. The Coach intends to take this opportunity to see how the men will behave in a real game. With that end in view Coach Van Wagner will use as many men as possible on Saturday night. From the showing against the Y.M.H.A. the men to make the trip to Dartmouth and Vernon next week will very likely be chosen.

Three men only will be used on the forward line on Saturday. Of these Turpie and Phillips have had previous experience in intercollegiate basketball and will undoubtedly make a good showing. Davis the other man is playing his first game on the senior squad, and has been showing up so well in practice that he should be on a par with the other two.

Several men will be tried out on the defense, among them, Blumenstein, Quackenbush and Hilton of last year's senior team. Boucher of last year's Intermediate A will also line up on the defense and should in all probability take care of the centre position. "Bozo" Nanson has not yet shown up but will be out either on Friday or early next week. On the other hand the Y.M.H.A. have one of the fastest teams in the city at present. Last year they were well up in the City and District League and they have strengthened their team with the addition of Mendelsohn, who has played for McGill the past few years. Taking these things into consideration the game should be fast from start to finish.

The Intermediate A's also start their season on Saturday night when they stack up against the North Branch Y.M.C.A. The latter is well known in local basketball circles, while the collegians are out to give a good account of themselves. A number of candidates have been working out for this team under Coach Eddy Crab and all of them

TRACK CLUB HOLDS DINNER TO-NIGHT

Interesting Programme Has Been Arranged

As a fitting climax to one of the most successful seasons in its history, the McGill Track Club will hold its Championship dinner to-night, at seven o'clock, in the Union. The executive has made elaborate arrangements and this promises to be one of the most successful dinners in recent years.

Sir Arthur Currie and Professor T. J. Teas, the Honorary President of the Club, will deliver short addresses during the evening. The Club has been especially fortunate in securing the services of Jimmy Rice whose anecdotes and inimitable style are always well received.

This is the seventh consecutive time that the track team has been successful in bringing the Intercollegiate trophy back to the Union, and present indications point to an equally successful season next year.

To-night's programme is a very attractive one and the Executive hope that all members of the Track Club will be present.

SOCCER CLUB HOLDS FIRST ANNUAL FEAST

Sir Arthur Currie Congratulated The Team
OFFICERS CHOSEN

Stephenson Captain for Next Year: Schleifer Re-elected Manager

"From more than one source I have received reports highly praising the McGill soccer men on their ability as players, and what is much more on the splendid manner in which they have always played," said Sir Arthur Currie addressing the first annual dinner of the McGill Association Football in the Union last night. Sir Arthur expressed the desire that the men would take into their later public life the high ethics of sportsmanship which they had displayed upon the football field.

The splendid development of soccer at the University this season was noted by Basil MacLean, president of the Students' Council who proposed the toast Alma Mater, and assured the men of the intention of the authorities to encourage and assist all those sports which are termed the minor sports. Charlie Seaton the team's captain for the past two seasons replied and expressed his sincere wishes for the club's success in the future. Some of the outstanding characteristics of the game of soccer were dealt with by Dr. Lamb in giving the toast to the club which was answered by J.L. Bailony.

Three men of the McGill team, the Intercollegiate champions, are graduating in the spring. These are Seaton, the captain and a wonderful centre forward; Bailony who has been called the "fastest outside left in the city;" and Cave the great back. Kenneth Elbridge proposed the toast to the graduating players, and Allister Cave replied.

Major Forbes was able to be present for a few minutes and added his congratulations to those of the other speakers on the splendid success achieved by the Red and White Association football players this year and the wonderful name for sportsmanship which they had gained.

In appreciation of the work which he had done for the club, Mr. Henderson, of the P.Q.F.A. and president of the Referees' Association was presented with a cane by Mr. Finlay the club's coach. In expressing his thanks, Mr. Henderson, a soccer man of thirty-five years' experience, outlined the record of the McGill team this year, from the time of their early practices and opening victorious game against the Mounted Police to the day when at Kingston they won the Intercollegiate championship, and their great game against the Grenadier Guards, ranked as equals to any team in Canada. Mr. Henderson had been closely connected with the University team this year, having refereed most of their games, and he gave it as his opinion (Continued on Page Three)

All members of the Union House Committee are asked to be present at a meeting of the committee at 1 p.m. to-day in the Union.

INTERMEDIATES TO ENGAGE IN HOCKEY

Officers Elected for Year and Schedule Outlined

Representatives of Loyola, University of Montreal and McGill met last Monday evening a 8 o'clock to consider the formation of an Intermediate Hockey League, which, if according to plans, will take a prominent part in college sports in the future.

In the past, the intermediate have been somewhat of a force and have only acted as a stepping stone to more meritorious positions. It is the intention of Manager Hewson to lift and reorganize this hockey unit into one which will be an important factor in college circles.

At the meeting, a tentative double schedule was drawn up. This will be announced when definitely decided upon. There will be night games altogether, the ultimate winner of which will play off during the latter part of February with the winner of the Kingston group and later with the winner of the Toronto group.

The officers elected were as follows:—

President—C. G. Hewson (McGill)
Vice-president—M. Kennedy (Loyola)
Sec. Treas.—Mr. Gagnon (U. of Montreal).

The Intermediate Hockey squad has, to a certain degree, been picked and prospects look quite promising. However they will be up against stiff opposition as it is understood that University of Montreal expect to turn out an excellent team this year.

LLOYD B. ALMOND

Elected Science representative on the Students' Council.

THIS IS FOR JUNIORS
December 6 is the final date on which biographies will be received, but since that day is observed at this University as a half holiday, the Annual Board would greatly appreciate the return of these forms to-day or Friday. This would be of great assistance to the Board. Juniors who are photographed at Noonan's are entitled to a finished picture; this can only be obtained by returning the selected proof to the Studio, a thing which should be done without any delay whatsoever.

PSYCHOLOGISTS IN HEATED DISCUSSION

Society Hears Dr. Lighthall in Excellent Address

One of the liveliest discussions ever held at McGill was the outcome of Dr. W. D. Lighthall's address on the "Outer Consciousness" before the Psychological Society last night. The speaker related that during his stay at McGill he was deeply interested in philosophical problems, and the science of ethics led him into Psychology. He always wondered how it was that ordinary people while seeking pleasure and happiness for themselves, can at the same time seek for the happiness of others. Life, he said, is a great deal deeper than common life. The ethical idea of the good for others is instinctive. It proceeds from something deeper than the individual. There is an intelligence working outside of ourselves and this is what we call our outer consciousness.

To illustrate how the instinct works he cited as an example the case of martyrdom. The martyr, he said, illustrates himself for the good of others. It is a case of outer consciousness. He also brought forward the case of the movements of the amoeba, to illustrate the purpose of life. Joy, he said (Continued on Page Three)

NO CASH IS REQUIRED TO BUY ANNUAL

Price of Book is Deducted From Caution Money

LARGE BOOK
Twenty-five Cent Reduction On Price Charged last Year

Although there will certainly be no reduction in the number of pages in the 1925 Annual, and even though it is may be larger than that of 1925, it is quite possible that this year's book has been decided to charge twenty-five cents less for the volume this year, than has been charged for the last two years. The book will sell at $3.50, and except in the case of students taking chemistry, the amount of subscription may be deducted from the caution money of the student who signs. This means that anyone desiring the book can receive a copy without any actual cash being involved in the transaction. This feature which has proved very popular in past years, is expected to be greatly acceptable again this session.

Members of every class executive will be in possession of subscription lists by noon to-day and it is expected that the campaign will be in full swing by to-morrow. The forms will circulate until December 17, three days before the Christmas holidays begin. Only a number of annuals sufficient to supply the requirements of those who sign these lists will be printed.

Work on the Annual is proceeding apace. Individual junior pictures have been taken, and by this Saturday all biographies will have been handed in. During this week and next, week, the class groups will be taken. In the notice column appears a schedule of hours at which the various class pictures will be taken. The Annual Board expects that unless notified to the contrary, these hours are acceptable to the various classes. The Annual board has also made arrangements whereby class pictures may be secured for one dollar each. This is a saving of 25 cents over the price charged last year, and will involve the placing of the order through the Annual Board and paying for same in advance. It has been found absolutely impossible to reduce the price charged for the negative and insertion in the Annual. Seven dollars will therefore be payable to the photographer at the time that the pictures are taken.

The practice of having the name of every member of the University in the Annual which proved so very popular last year will in all probability be followed again this year. The 1925 Annual Board also expects to include many innovations in this year's book.

er, considering him to be most fitting on account of his piety, courage, judgment, and steadfastness. The expedition set sail from France in 1641, and included Jeanne Mance among its most important members. The colonists wintered at Quebec and arrived at Montreal in the following May. Before the building of the settlement was begun, a religious service was held.

In the following year, Ville Marie as the new town was called, had trouble with the Iroquois, but suffered no loss, owing to Maisonneuve's courage and wisdom. In 1648 Maisonneuve returned to France, to obtain more support for his colony, and sailed in 1651 when affairs at Ville Marie were in a serious condition. He brought out more settlers, among them Marguerite Bourgeoise. After this the colony was more prosperous, and Maisonneuve was successful in his dealings with the Indians. In 1655 he again returned to France and brought out to the New World four more priests for his settlement. Two years later a new church was erected, and Marguerite Bourgeoise opened the first school in Montreal.

Maisonneuve was administrator of justice as well as governor, and fulfilled his judicial duties most effectively. His laws against selling liquor to the Indians, and against gambling, blasphemy, etc., were strictly obeyed. In 1650 a great Iroquois attack was averted by the famous exploit of Dollard, but trouble with the savages continued. There was also friction between Maisonneuve and the governor at Quebec, who was however, recalled at the request of Bishop Laval. In 1662 Maisonneuve was made Seigneur of Montreal, and thus gained several important rights, but his position was nevertheless insecure, as the new enterprise chosen Maisonneuve as lead-governor, de Mevry, was trying to

CANADIANS MAKE MUCH OF PROBLEMS

Dr. Caldwell Stressed Need of Meeting Difficulties Firmly

IMMIGRATION
Chief Hope of Dominion is Education of its Youth

The word of citizens seeing Canada not only in itself but as a factor in world life of to-day, and the value of men who, by vision that is not limited by national boundaries, can find a solution for the problems of the Dominion, was stressed by Dr. William Caldwell, Head of the Department of Philosophy at McGill, when he addressed a gathering of business men at the Mount Royal Hotel last night. Professor Caldwell was the English speaking Canadian asked by the Shoe Manufacturers' Association of Canada to give an address at the banquet in connection with the annual meeting of that organization. The French speaker being Senator Beaudry.

Dr. Caldwell spoke against the present tendency on the part of Canadians to make much of their difficulties, to be overwhelmed by problems that should not be overwhelming. While admitting that it is the privilege of British peoples to grumble, he contended that overestimation of the gravity of difficulties had a detrimental effect on the welfare of a nation. He maintained that what he termed "little Canadianism" or the idea of judging things in Canada without a view which has been done in world affairs in the recent past, was not desirable. Canada had suffered severely from the world war and is still suffering the aftermath of that terrible conflict, but other countries suffered more severely and the period of reconstruction in those countries would extend far into the future.

In this connection he spoke of a trip he recently made to Poland, Czechoslovakia and other central European countries where he observed at first hand the social conditions now existing and the after effects of the war on these countries. After referring humorously to his native country, Scotland, Dr. Caldwell pointed out that centuries marked by struggle against great difficulties had been largely instrumental in effecting consistent progress in the land of the heather. Difficulties had made the Scots.

The speaker insisted that all criticism of Canada should be constructive, not merely deprecative, that the Dominion will get the kind of government the citizens want if the citizens make their wants known.

Dr. Caldwell stated that the solution for problems in Canada is education; it is the chief hope of the country. Socialist parties in various parts of the world are beginning to recognize education as one of the foundations of national welfare. Czechoslovakia recently gave up class war and is taking up education of its youth.

While admitting that a university course may help a man in the business world, the speaker maintained that students should not go to a university in order to become successful money-makers later. A university should train men to appreciate their place in life, to learn the value of true citizenship.

Canada can not expect to get the best type of immigrants, Dr. Caldwell stated, unless the great possibilities of the country were pressed abroad. It is worth the idea that Canada is worth while and that prospective immigrants will share in a common life and in the common good of the Dominion.

The audience had also the program, being composed of French and English. Professor Caldwell gave part of his speech in French.

One for Two.—Friend—"I suppose you find your wife can live on your income all right?"

Newlywed—"Oh, yes, indeed; but it's up to me now to make another one for myself."—The Etude.

bring Montreal more under the control of Quebec. In 1616 Maisonneuve was forced to leave the country by the then governor, de Tracy, and the governorship of Montreal was indefinitely transferred to another man. Maisonneuve was thus a sacrifice to the controlling policy of Louis XIV. He lived on in France, as simply as ever, until his death in 1676. Refreshments were served, after a short discussion of the papers.

SKYSCRAPER EDUCATION

Citizens of Chicago though indurated to the sight of skyscrapers whose massive bulk rise from the streets to scrape the azure skies, to-day stand in awe before a ponderous pile that marks America's newest convert to the architectural tendency of the age—a skyscraper church.

An Eastern college succumbs either to the expediency of the times or sees in the style of towering edifices a symbol of loftiness of purpose and a medium through which to convey to the rabble mind its high ideals and sublime aspirations. Given the necessary temperament, we should understand with what elation it broadcasts the news that the proceeds of a recent "drive" are to be devoted to the erection of a skyscraper building wherein the students will presumably be acclimated at a tender age to the conditions which are typical of the present day business world.

At the entrance of McGill University grounds is being reared a stately colonnade which in its quiet dignity carries a trace of Grecian art—wherein strength was not confused with bulk and the poetic soul of a nation found adequate expression in the proper restraint of decorative stone. Every student at Old McGill joins the consort of its wellwishers in keen anticipation of the day when present plans for additional building accommodation will be realised. And we venture to say that each and every one secretly hopes that the new structures will correctly convey—insofar as architectural treatment may be made to express it—the spirit which one may hope to find within. We make no apology for our unmodishness in expressing the wish that Old McGill may always—in its dignified buildings, its spacious lawns, its shaded walks—suggest to the transient as well as the daily visitor a symbol of repose. Let the institution have at least the outward signs of a place for quiet deliberation and thoughtful reflection; an oasis in a sea of hustling humanity; refreshing greens adjoining streaming asphalt.

To rely upon lofty edifices to lend prestige to an institution, is to lean upon a superiority which is doomed to an ephemeral existence, which lasts, to be exact, until your neighbor builds a higher structure. What is of greater import is the solidarity of the structure of ethics and character which a university seeks to implant into the men and women who pass through its halls. The quality of the moral fibre of a student body is readily integrable and when carefully nurtured can become a living monument to those who cultivate it, and it alone can bring solace to a panicky world.

"If a man build a better mouse trap than his neighbor, the world will beat a path to his door". Building upon a solid foundation of intellectual achievements, we need not fear the transitory ascension of someone else's popularity that bases its appeal on impressionable emotionalism.

CONDENSED COMMENT

Professor B. K. Sandwell, formerly of the Economics department of this University and now associated with the English Department of Queen's, will address a meeting of the Literary and Debating Society at Strathcona Hall to-day. Professor Sandwell is a man of wide repute in Canadian literature, he is the author of several articles and is as well, a contributor to several Canadian magazines. He was a member of the Editorial Board of the Canadian Bookman, a magazine of the highest order. Those who remember Professor Sandwell, remember him as a man who was able to give a pleasing twist to anything that he had to say. For us, he has chosen a subject, which, to judge by its title, "The Utility of Bad Literature", should be exceedingly entertaining and instructive. Coming as it does during Canadian Book Week, the interest should be considerably heightened.

The question has been asked why the "Daily" published a candidate's platform which contained obviously incorrect statements. Although those statements in question were recognized as being incorrect, it was beyond the jurisdiction of the editors to revise any platform submitted. It is unfortunate that a candidate should have overlooked the necessity of basing his article for publication on fact.

In spite of the eulogistic remarks regarding the thrill of shining one's own shoes which appeared in the Literary Supplement, the members of the Union House Committee have once again displayed their desire for convenient innovations by the installation of a shoe shining stand and all the accompanying accessories which are usually found in the vicinity of shoe polish and the polishers of shoes. This newly installed service is opening for the first time to-day—it is to be found in the basement of the Union—and it is sincerely hoped that steady student patronage will take this new feature quickly out of the experimental stage and into the realms of the permanent.

MARITIME - WESTERN MEETING AT FIVE

Tickets and Programmes For Dance Available Then

The Maritimers and Westerners will hold a combined meeting of those hailing from the far east and far west provinces this afternoon at 5 o'clock in Strathcona Hall.

The chief item for consideration will be the much discussed Maritime-Western Dance. Preparations are under way to make this the most thoroughly enjoyable informal event of the social season. Last year's dance was a huge success; all present enjoyed themselves to the utmost and are anxiously awaiting this season's affair.

At to-day's meeting the tickets and programmes will be distributed among the members and the demand will undoubtedly be great. It is assured that the reputation of this annual will be well maintained when East meets West at the Venetian Gardens on Tuesday, the 16th, for the last fling before the Christmas holidays.

Noah Webster had the right idea about the word "Chum"—"a room mate at college or university—an old and well-liked friend."

He probably had Old Chum Tobacco in mind when he wrote this definition. Perhaps it helped him frame it.

Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:—J. D. Converse, Science '26, published in your issue of yesterday the following: "Our men on athletic teams and debating teams are given a royal time when visiting other colleges. Do we do the same? Not to the same extent. One particular case came to my notice recently. On the Sunday following the McGill-Cornell debate here, the Cornell debaters were apparently turned loose on the streets of Montreal to entertain themselves as best they could."

Now, sir, I will tell those of the university who are interested, (and I imagine that everyone will be) just how the Cornell men were entertained while at McGill.

On Saturday morning—the morning that they arrived, two members of the "Lit" met them at the Windsor Station. They were taken from there in a "taxi" to the Union arriving about 11 a.m. Some time was spent in meeting members of the university and also the McGill debaters. They were conducted around the Union in the meantime and shown the various interesting places. They were next taken to the campus with the McGill team, and in company with Col. Bovey and Dr. Leacock had their photos taken, going back to the Union once more they were met by the members of three fraternities and taken to their respective houses.

In the afternoon about 3 o'clock Messrs Scanlan and Falconer went to the Union, in company with a member of the "Lit", to interview Mr. Schwaberg with whom they were to debate that evening. After finishing with this the Cornell men said that they would like to visit some of the stores on St. Catherine street before going back to their houses. The "Lit" members immediately offered to take them around, but Mr. Scanlan said that he knew Montreal very well and would like to go alone. They came back about 4.30 and I believe rested for a couple of hours.

At 7.15 they attended a dinner at the Union given in their honor. The next three or four hours were taken up at the ball room. From the time the debate was over until 12.15 they were in the company of McGill men in the Cafeteria.

On Sunday they had breakfast and dinner at their respective homes. Around 2 o'clock they went with a McGill man to the Mount Royal. Coming back at 4.30 they met Mr. Glasco at his fraternity and were conducted by him to the home of Mr. Halstead the American consul.

The time that Mr. Converse says they must have been from that time when they left Mr. Halstead's in the evening, and arrived back at the fraternities, and I might say that provision was made for this, but the Cornell men said that they would like to come back alone.

They left early on Monday morning and a McGill man saw them off at the train. The above is a correct statement of the entertainment given the Cornell men, and I ask, can man using his reason say that they were turned loose on the streets of Montreal? They were not, but Mr. Converse forgot to make inquiries before he made his statements and consequently did an injury to the whole university. There are many comments I could make but I will give the gentleman in question the benefit of the doubt for I cannot think that any McGill man would use such a detectable method to catch a few votes.

Yours sincerely, meet staged at the Y. M. C. A. around Christmas, and took the college championship in the spring. Both men followed the American style of wrestling and both showed fighting ability.

MacNaughton showed his strength and his thorough knowledge of the game in his match with Fisher, using the double-arm lock to advantage. The former won the college championship last year in the 147's and made a place on the Intercollegiate team.

Bryant and Wood worked hard in the 118 pound class and the former, taking on Silver immediately after, showed that he could use the cradle hold to good effect. Clement, two year's ago Intercollegiate Champion of the 135 pound men, used the arm lock and bar, and the bar and headlock against Touzell.

The supremacy of experience over weight was demonstrated in the match between Harvey, a second year middle weight, and Martineau, a new, hard-working light-heavy. Harvey demonstrated the use of scientific methods including that of "Stealing weight" from his opponent.

McCormick, a new man, against Greenburg, of last year's turnout, worked hard with the logical result. Two experienced men, Leland and Wood, member of last year's team wound up the exhibitions to the satisfaction of the crowd.

If the interest manifested in yesterday's events is maintained through the next three days, it will take a brave man, indeed to assail the standing of these as the best of sports on any grounds whatever.

is the movement of matter to some result; While pain is the movement of matter away from some result. The outer consciousness is independent of the individual's consciousness.

In closing his address, Dr. Lighthall stressed the fact that the world is purposive. We may attain the things desired if there is an ordinary chance to do so. We live for our satisfaction and happiness.

A heated argument then followed among the members of the society and

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:—Through the columns of the McGill Daily I take the opportunity of expressing my sincere thanks to those who supported my candidature in the election to the Students' Council.

Yours etc.,
LLOYD B. ALMOND

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,—It was gratifying to one who has been actively connected with the Glee Club for some years to see mention of that organization in the platform of one of the candidates for the Students' Council. He appears, from the use of the term Glee Club to be unaware of the fact that the former Glee Club is now the Choral Society, having been expanded to include the women of the University.

The Candidate asks, "why can't we make our Glee Club take as prominent a place in the Undergraduate world as the Glee Clubs of other universities do in theirs?" The reason is obvious. First, because out of the whole University barely twenty men feel interested enough to turn out to the practices, and second because, when the Glee Club sought the student in putting on a concert, the response was lamentably small.

The interest that the Choral Society needs now is not platform propaganda, though that is welcome, but it is the interest of the men who will consistently attend the practices. If that can be secured the Society will be able to serve the University in such a way that it can then argue the interest of the general student body, and claim its support.

Yours etc.,

ART. MANSON.

Elected by acclamation to represent Medicine on the Students' Council.

Dr. Lighthall, Mr. Klinenberg seemed to object to many of the points which the speaker had brought forward. He claimed that the movements of the amoeba does not concern pleasure or pain. It is due to Physical or Chemical laws such as surface tension etc. If there are any changes in its environment, it had to follow the definite attraction, whether it is good for the amoeba or not. He also disputed the fact that good was an instinct or intuition. It was, he said, we would not differ so much in the conception of what is good and what is evil. Marrydome he claims, is not always an altruistic act. He believed it may be the highest form of egoism or self expression.

Although containing good logic, Dr. Lighthall regarded the argument of Mr. Klinenberg as somewhat faulty. He said, that if you take the mercantile view of the functions of the amoeba, then it naturally arises, that the conduct of the beings higher up in the scale of life is also mechanistic; and if we are all machines, it would not explain the psychological facts of joy and affection and pain which we exhibit. It does not explain the deeper and the spiritual things of life. Concerning the point that good is an instinct or intuition, he says that it would be a calamity if we were all of the same conception of good and evil.

Mr. Hoover, the president of the society, who occupied the chair, introduced the speaker as a very distinguished McGill graduate and a man whose greatness has been recognized. In closing the meeting, he thanked Dr. Lighthall on behalf of the Society for the excellent address which it was very fortunate to hear. Dr. Tate then announced that in the spring, Dr. J. McKeown Chastell, one of the foremost philosophers of the day, would address the students in the convocation hall of the R. V. C.

Immediately after the banquet, the annual general meeting was held. Nominations were called for the position of captain for next year's team.

and Stephenson was elected. The next position to be filled was that of manager. Rupert Schleifer was re-elected and, as Mr. Finlay explained, his long experience and executive ability will prove valuable assets to the club next season. It was decided, however, that the work involved in this position was so great that it would be advisable to have an assistant manager and Scott was chosen for the post.

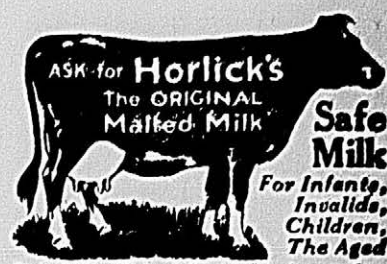

After some discussion as to the best manner in which to control interfaculty games it was deemed to best appoint an intra-mural Manager, and Archdale, of Science, was elected.

The men chosen for these three positions are all experienced and well acquainted with the game and everything points to a very successful season next year.

SINGLE ACT PLAYS TO BE PRODUCED

Players Club Search For Quarters

PLANS LAID

Executive Searching for Capable Producers and Talented Players

At a meeting of the Executive of the Players Club, held at 5 o'clock yesterday, provisional arrangements were made subject to the approval of the approval of a subsequent general meeting to be held shortly. The Club hopes to produce three One-Act plays towards the end of February 1925. The Executive felt that any earlier start would not be practicable owing to the Christmas vacation and first Term Examinations following soon after. Plays by Bernard Shaw, Lord Dunsany were suggested as was also a French Comedy.

Two immediate questions face the Club: one is the discovery of producers, and the other a hall or theatre. On Coulborn's offer to produce one of the plays has been provisionally accepted and we learn that he would also be ready to advise other volunteers for the task.

As regards a theatre, the members of the Executive will immediately conduct a search around the College Buildings and also in the city in the hope of finding a suitable location. It is felt that a large hall is not necessary; one holding a hundred persons would quite suffice and over booking could be dealt with by Extra performances. Convocation Hall in the R.V.C. is somewhat large and would impose serious drawbacks backstage. In the meantime the Secretary is anxious for suggestions.

Experience leads the Executive to think that the Players Club is scarcely like to flourish unless it has a home. It is well known to all Amateur Actors that a permanent rendezvous, where rehearsals can be held at any time, where properties can be contrived and kept where members can always resort when they feel the urge to talk shop, is of immense value. The Executive realizes that there will be considerable difficulty in obtaining a permanent theatre, but they do not despair, but feel that McGill is entitled to a second Hart House.

As the opening general meeting held on Monday Nov. 24th there was a large attendance of people interested. So far, however the Secretary has received only 17 names of prospective members. Now membership in the Club does not necessarily compel anyone to appear on the stage; there are manifold duties, which are none the less pleasures, besides acting. There is also the lays body of permanent audience, which we hope to build up. All persons interested whether to act, watch, or to do anything whatever are requested to send in their names either in writing or by telephone to the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. A.P.R. Coulborn, Apt. 31, 4560 St. Catherine St. W., Westmount, telephone West. 5633 W.

POLO TEAM TO PLAY "Y" SEXTETTE

Intermediates to Clash With
Y.M.C.A. Squad To-night

LIGHT WORKOUT

Good Attendance at Swimming
Practice Last Night

The intermediate water polo team will play a regular scheduled game with the Y.M.C.A. mermen to-night in the K. of C. natatorium at 8:30 p.m. Y.M.C.A. has already beaten McGill by a score of 2-1, but the winning tally was scored when Parsons and Moore were decorating the penalty bench, so there is every possibility that the decision will be reversed in to-night's encounter. The attendance at the last game was all that could be wished for and it is hoped that enthusiasts will turn out in force as it is likely to be the last time that they will see the team in action until the intercollegiate series in the Spring.

Playing three games in one week has proved too much for even the rugged team McGill has this year, especially as in the last game when fights were more frequent than goals. It is possible that a few of the regulars will not start but their places will be filled by capable subs. The whole team with the exception of Parsons was out yesterday for a light workout. Parsons was not allowed to go in as Mr. Vernot thought a rest would do him more good.

Williams will start in goal, with McLaren and Munro in front of him. Williams played his best this year when he kept C.P.R. scoreless. He has every chance to replace Jardine the senior goalie who is graduating this year. Moore will play centre with Adams and Parsons or Vickerson will grace the forward line. Moore and Adams though not figuring much in the scoring have done very good work. Every goal that Parsons or Vickerson have scored this year came as a result of timely passes by them when they decided that the other man was more likely to make certain of it. It is this unselfishness that has made McGill supreme in the intercollegiate series for the past years.

The Y.M.C.A. is not broadcasting its line-up but it is certain that "Curly" Walters, and old McGill goalie will be in the nets and that Curtis Wells a former Varsity star will start at centre.

The following is the McGill line up.

Goal—Williams
Defense—MacLaren
Defense—Munro
Centre—Moore
Forward—Adams
Forward—Vickerson, or Parsons.

About twenty or thirty men turned out for swimming practice last night. A great deal of attention was given to long distance plunging and diving. The speed swimmers are coming around and Harold Platte Jim Ross and others were out to help get the new material into trim. George Vernot was out and started in good style. Quick turning was practiced by the men and its importance in gaining an advantage over the opponent was shown.

Mr. Vernot wants a few more men to turn out there being plenty of room in the various classes for new material.

LECTURE ON USE OF BAD LITERATURE

Prof. B. K. Sandwell at "Lit"
In Strathcona Hall

BOOK WEEK

Is Former McGill Professor
—Now With Queen's

At 8.15 this evening in the main assembly room of Strathcona Hall Prof. B. K. Sandwell of Queen's University, formerly of McGill, will speak to the literary section of the Literary and Debating Society on "The Utility of Bad Literature." This will be the second meeting of the newly-inaugurated programme of the "Lit" and has been arranged in connection with Canadian Book Week.

Prof. Sandwell will have a busy day during his visit to this city. In addition to speaking to the students he is addressing the Montreal Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon at noon in the Windsor Hotel; in connection with Book Week, Prof. Sandwell's message to-night, coming from one of the prominent members of the English department of Queen's will be of unusual interest to many McGill men who were associated with during his stay here and during his connection with the Department of Economics.

During 1917-18, Prof. Sandwell delivered a number of extension lectures at McGill in Journalism. His years of experience in that field made him especially qualified to lecture on that subject. During the 1918-19 term he gave a course on the history of commerce and was appointed officially as a lecturer in economics. In October 1919 when he assumed his duties in that capacity. In May 1920 he received the appointment of assistant professor of economics and held that position until he resigned August 20, 1923. He then went to Queen's where he joined the Department of English.

Prof. Sandwell's subject is such as to interest not only students of literature but all members of the literary and debating society. It is here pointed out again, especially to the new men at McGill that every man student is considered a member of the organization and is open to participate in and welcome at any functions arranged by the society.

The encouraging beginning of the "Lit" several weeks ago, when two papers were heard on democracy and literature, augurs well for to-night's meeting at which the executive of the society hopes to see a large turnout of students.
